An email digest of CCO program and certification news brought to you by the National Commission for the Certification of Crane Operators (NCCCO).

NCCCO Awarded Prestigious ANSI Accreditation.

The National Commission for the Certification of Crane Operators (NCCCO) today announced that it had been awarded accreditation by the American National Standards Institute (ANSI) for all three of its crane operator certification programs.

Changes Made to the NCCCO Practical Examiner Accreditation Program.

As part of its policy of continued improvement, NCCCO has announced changes to its Practical Examiner Accreditation Program.

Testing Accommodations.

The NCCCO provides testing accommodations in accordance with the Americans with Disabilities Act. The process for requesting accommodations has been revised.

NCCCO Appoints Chairmen.

The National Commission for the Certification of Crane Operators (NCCCO) has announced the appointment of chairmen to two NCCCO Committees.

Overhead Program Gathers Pace.

Crane Tech of Tampa, Florida, spoke volumes to the overhead crane industry recently when its entire company team of field consultants became accredited by NCCCO as overhead crane operator practical examiners.

Training is Key.

Ask a real estate agent for the three most important factors in making a sale, and the response you're likely to hear is "location, location, and location." The same could be equally said of the importance of training in predicting success on the CCO certification examinations.
